FAVORABLE REPORTS FROM THE SICK ROOM YESTERDAY

The People of Baltimore Consider the Mrs. Garfield Gift Ill timed and in bad taste Etc, Etc, Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 28, [illegible] The president rested well for the [illegible] without [illegible] disturbance [illegible] This morning an improvement of his general condition [illegible] He [illegible] refreshed by his night's rest and expresses himself cheerfully as to his condition. Pulse [illegible], temperature 98.4, respiration 18. Signed Bliss and others.

1 P. M.—The president is [illegible] splendidly to-day and has no fever and surgeons now consider his fever broken [illegible] The wound continues to drain [illegible] He has a good appetite and his food digests. Dr. Hamilton arrived from New York this morning, and at noon he said that the president was improving as fast as possible.

[illegible] P. M.—The president bore the dressing of his wound this morning with less fatigue than hitherto. It appears well and is discharging [illegible] shortly afterwards his bed was rolled into an adjoining room while that occupied till now is being thoroughly cleaned and put in order. His pulse is now 94, temperature 98.5, respiration 18.

5:30 P. M.—The condition of the president continues every way satisfactory. The pulse is below 100. He is entirely free from fever and resting quietly. He has not yet been moved back to his room.

8 P. M.—The president passed a pleasant day. He has taken nourishment with apparent relish. His temperature continued normal till 5 o'clock. A moderate afternoon rise occurred which, however, occasioned the patient but slight discomfort and causes no anxiety. At present his pulse is 101, respiration 20.

THE PRESIDENT'S ROOM

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Col. Rockwell says that the president is decidedly better this morning than at any time since wounded; that at the morning dressing there was a free healthy flow of pus from the wound and a portion of the original wound above the incision was observed to have commenced healing. Surgeons after consultation on the subject this morning concluded to have removed the heavy carpet which now covers the floor of the president's chamber, which it was decided would be beneficial and [illegible] the brightness of the morning with the perfectly fresh and dry atmosphere, together with the favorable condition of the patient it was decided to make the change at once. Surgeons maintain that carpet absorbs impurities of the atmosphere which invariably exist to a more or less extent in a sick chamber, and it is a receptacle for the secretion of dust, etc. The president's bed was carefully removed from his own room to a room immediately across the hall, where he is now resting quietly.

ALL RIGHT

A private dispatch from H. V. Boynton, Washington, this morning, asserts emphatically that the president is all right.

Secretary Kirkwood just said that the president was decidedly better than on the 2d of July. The president's disability has not interfered with matters in the interior department, except a few appointments and removals which were necessary but not very important or pressing. In the postal department eleven appointments only await the president's approval.

BLAINE TO LOWELL

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The following cablegram was sent to-night:

Lowell, Minister, London—This afternoon and evening the president has shown some increase in pulse and temperature, but not sufficient to cause uneasiness on the part of his physicians. At 11 o'clock he is sleeping very quietly.

BLAINE, Secretary.

[illegible] IN BAD TASTE

BALTIMORE, July 28.—The Gazette prints a letter [illegible] from the [illegible] who started Mrs. Garfield subscription in New York in which he [illegible] Baltimoreans [illegible] and says that [illegible] will be on the [illegible] The Gazette says it must be confessed that our [illegible] have shown little disposition to contribute to this project, not as we believe because they are [illegible] but [illegible] because they think the [illegible]

The secretary, speaking on the subject, said [illegible] ascertain [illegible] persons [illegible] to prevent at least [illegible] a line which may lead [illegible]

Silver Purchase.

The treasury department to-day purchased [illegible] ounces of fine silver for delivery to the Philadelphia, San Francisco and New Orleans mints.

Bonds.

Coupon 5 per cent bonds, retired with interest to date of presentation up to the close of business to-day aggregate [illegible] Amount of bonds which matured July 1st redeemed by Treasurer Gilfillan to date [illegible] Orders have been given to close up as speedily as possible the London agency for receipt of 5 and 6 per cent bonds for continuance at 3½ per cent.

Small Coinage Stopped.

The treasury department has ordered the discontinuance of the manufacture and sale of gold tokens stamped "quarter dollar" and "half dollar." Persons manufacturing or selling such tokens are rendering themselves liable to penalties both of fine and imprisonment.

Robertson's Bond Approved.

Secretary Windom has approved Judge Robertson's bonds as collector of customs of the port of New York.

The minister of foreign affairs of the Argentine Republic sends the following cablegram regarding the long disputed boundary question between that republic and Chili:

Land Decision.

McVeagh has decided that where a homestead entry in public lands has been made by a settler the land so entered cannot whilst such entry stands be set apart for a military reservation, even prior to completion of full title by settlers, but that where preemption has been made of public lands, land covered thereby may be set apart by the president for such reservation at any time previous to payment and entry by a settler under the preemption law.

THE TURF.

Maud S at Belmont Park.

BELMONT PARK, PA., July 28.—Ten thousand people saw Maud S try to beat her record, the largest crowd ever congregated at this track. She was in good nature and well behaved.

The [illegible] class summary—Belle Oakley 1 1 1, Grey Chief 3 3 2, Early Rose 1 2 3. Best time [illegible].

Maud S was then brought out and after jogging around the track was sent off on the first heat. She reached the quarter in 33¾, the half in 1:05½, three-quarters in 1:33¾ and completed the mile in 2:12 without the slightest indication of a break. In the second heat she reached the quarter in 32¾, half in 1:03¼, three quarters in 1:37¾. Here she hesitated, swerved and finally made a bad break, but recovering came under the wire in 2:13¼. The third and last heat was almost a repetition of the first, being trotted cleanly and squarely without even a skip, one quarter in 33¾, half in 1:07, three quarters in 1:38¾ and mile in 2:12¼. The three consecutive heats are the best ever trotted in the world. Vanderbilt was present and watched the race from the judges' stand.

The Last Shot of the War.

[Boston Transcript.]

The Guiteau [illegible] henceforth forswear any suspicion of the loyalty and patriotism of the south. However partisan strife may rage in the future it says to-day, "it will never again be doubted that in any great crisis of the union the south and the north will stand together in defence of the life and the good fame of the republic. Guiteau fired the last shot of the last bloody shirt campaign."

Burned at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The British ship Oriflamme burned at sea lat. 18.12 south, long. [illegible] west. The crew arrived at Wilmington on the Italian bark Standrea. No particulars.

A dispatch from Los Angeles gives the following particulars of the loss of the Oriflamme with an assorted cargo of coal and merchandise. While in company with the Italian bark St. Andrea off the coast of Peru, took fire, presumably by spontaneous combustion from coal in the lower hold. The crew had only time to secure a few clothes and left the ship for the St. Andrea. After boarding, the bark an explosion took place and the ship sank immediately. The captain and crew are in good health. The British consul ordered the crew to the Sailor's Home in San Francisco.

Elopement in High Life

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Ten days ago Edward L. Rhodes, son of ex-Chief [illegible] and Ella F. Evans [illegible] of San Jose, under the care of Mr. M. Pherson, her guardian, eloped from San Jose and came to this city and were married by Rev. Mr. Noble. A corruptible servant girl was bribed and a big dog poisoned to facilitate the escapade.

Instantly Killed.

Michael Fitzpatrick, stevedore, working on board the ship MacBeth yesterday afternoon, fell down the hatchway and was instantly killed.

Suicide of an Undertaker.

Peter Craig, one of the oldest undertakers in the city, committed suicide Tuesday evening by shooting himself at his room on [illegible] st. The body was not discovered until yesterday afternoon. Cause, financial embarrassment. He was a native of Scotland, aged 64 years.

Row at Visalia.

VISALIA, CAL., July 28.—Tuesday night a difficulty occurred at Cross Creek between [illegible] the proprietor of a saloon and [illegible] Kitchner [illegible] a warehouse, during which Kitchner shot James Nelson, the ball penetrating his lungs. Kitchner gave himself up. Nelson is now at the county hospital in a dying condition.

Field Explosion.

NAPA, July 28.—This morning on the farm of W. [illegible] a threshing machine exploded [illegible] William [illegible] George Platt and Robt. Davis. Harry Gilliam slightly injured.

Western Oregon

[illegible]

Proposals are invited for a county jail at Astoria. This makes three buildings inviting the attention of architects [illegible] worth of work and materials.

State Senator [illegible] Tower, [illegible] and [illegible] Andrews [illegible] trip to Mt. [illegible] Tuesday evening. They succeeded in reaching the summit, where Mr. Ramsby found a slip of paper left by him nine years ago on the summit, which had been enclosed in a bottle, well preserved, with the following inscription: "Mt. Jalla Prairie, July 11, 1872, Robinson, C. Ramsby. Hurrah for Grant and Wilson." All parties express themselves highly delighted with the trip. The scenery from an eminence of 12,000 feet was inexpressibly grand. They could view both eastern and western Oregon. The Cascade range below them seemed like little hills.

Washington Territory

The territorial fair will be held at Olympia, beginning on Oct. 10th and continuing five days. Gov. Newell will deliver the annual address.

Three children of Stephen and Sarah Wright, of Washougal, have died during July of diphtheria. They were aged respectively 8, 6 and 5 years.

The wild blackberry crop of Clarke county has been immense this year. Over 500 gallons were picked in the vicinity of Lieser's mill on Salmon creek bottoms.

The O. R. & N. Co. will lay out a town site on their line at the junction of the Grange City and Dayton lines, to be known as Prescott, in honor of the general manager of that line. It is a most beautiful spot, well wooded and watered, with plenty of room to spread in.

The hop crop in the Puyallup valley promises to be one of the largest ever grown there. It is estimated that at least two thousand hands will be required in saving the crop. Picking will commence about Sept. 1st. In White river hop field picking will begin much earlier, about the 10th or 15th of August.

Hall, Paulson & Co., of Seattle, shipped by the bark Lizzie Williams 300 bedsteads to San Francisco. The demand for the furniture of this firm below is increasing rapidly, and 300 bedsteads per month instead of 250, as now furnished, could be sold. The hardwood furniture is becoming better known and appreciated.

On the afternoon of the 20th a thresher belonging to Mr. Gross took fire by friction while he was threshing grain on a farm of Julius Lasalvara on the Touchet, but leased by a man named Wood. The fire spread so rapidly that the men had barely time to save the horses. The power thresher and quite an amount of grain was consumed. Loss, about $1200.

The will of George Leveney, late of Kitsap county, has been probated. He leaves about $10,000 in money and property, to be divided equally between his daughter Jane, of Port Blakely, and his sister Margaret, of Scotland. This sum includes $2000 from the Ancient Order of United Workmen and $3,000 from the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Another case of smallpox was discovered at Seattle this week, the victim being a man named Davis, whose parents live in Newcastle. He had just returned from San Francisco and was promptly isolated from the rest of the world on the discovery of the nature of his malady. This is the thirteenth case of smallpox that has come to Seattle within the past two years, but each has been so promptly dealt with that the city has escaped contagion.

The sheriff of Mason county will sell at Oakland, on the 15th day of August, all the lands in that county belonging to G. A. Meigs, M. E. Meigs and the Meigs Lumber and Shipbuilding Company. A description of these lands written in the briefest manner possible occupies a half column of the smallest type, and must include several thousand acres. The sale will be made by virtue of a judgment in favor of Mrs. Mary M. Miller and her children, of Olympia, for the sum of $18,120.

Intelligencer: On the ship Otago, which brought the Chinese birds sent by Consul General Denny for Oregon and Washington, came another lot of birds of the pheasant tribe for Washington territory exclusively. They were brought by Capt. B[illegible] of the ship and by Frank King, the mate, and were distributed by them. Dr. Minor was given three pairs, two of which he sent to Protection island, and one to San Juan island; two pairs were given to Mr. Edwards of Port Blakely and let loose by him. The death of the other birds on the way over from Shanghai prevented a larger number being left on the sound.

Fatal Persistency.

From the San Francisco Golden Era.]

One of the singularities of this city is that business men never retire from business. They stand at the desk and die with the column of the day's profits half footed up. Though vast fortunes are made by hundreds, and a competency [illegible] by thousands, they never think of withdrawing from business and spending the remnant of their lives in comfort and quietude. There are many old men now in business in this city who should at once [illegible] young people. These old fellows are rich. They have sold [illegible] for more than a quarter of a century. They are still and went yet six days of the week they are at the store as anxious to make money as though the only thing they had in the world was the only thing they have got—a 30 years lease of life. They have no trouble with the tenacity of a tax collector and when their summons comes to join the innumerable caravan that moves to the pale realm of shade, the grim messenger goes not to their quiet homes but to their business places down town to find them. He does find them, though, and oft times he comes sooner than he would if he did not have to hunt around among the stores and warehouses for the man he is sent to call away from business.

A Nice-Smelling Chapter from Guiteau's Career

NEW YORK, July [illegible] [illegible] in the Kings county [illegible] 1874 April [illegible] Charles J. Guiteau [illegible] on the ground of infidelity. The case was referred to [illegible] Fuller to take testimony and report. The case was called for hearing in January, 1874. Mrs. Guiteau [illegible] sued but three witnesses [illegible] she was her husband and [illegible] satisfactory. He testified that he was her husband and had resided in New York state for more than a year, which is the law. [illegible] which he was a party. The third witness was the principal one, and her appearance would indicate that Guiteau helped her to prove the case against himself. This witness was Clara Jennings, of Twenty first street. She testified that she had known Guiteau since the previous August and that charges of infidelity against him were true. It is believed that Guiteau secured the attendance of this witness, and it is said that he first informed his wife of his infidelity and gave her the necessary information to enable her to secure a divorce. He put in no defense. The referee reported in favor of the plaintiff, and on the 4th of April the following motion was made before Justice [illegible] to confirm report of referee, and between that date and the 11th of the same month the judge handed down a decision confirming the report and signing a decree of divorce. In the fall of 1874, when divorce proceedings were in progress and while Guiteau was carrying on his liason with Clara Jennings, he was frequenting the rooms of the New York Young Men's Christian Association, and his name is on the books of that institution as a visitor. He was also a member of Calvary Baptist church and attended religious services of the church. After the divorce was granted Guiteau was cited to appear before the committee on discipline of the church, and when he appeared he confessed his immoralities and professed penitence, but the committee had no faith in his professions and expelled him from the church.

Comments on Senator Miller's Speech

The Herald here, referring to Senator Miller's remarks at the paper makers' convention yesterday, says: It is the most cynically impudent deliverance ever made by a senator of the United States, and the Sun [illegible] with equal severity.

The Times says: He exhibits refreshing frankness in stating his views on public questions. In one course he may learn the expedience of being a little less effusive and a little more frugal.

Kalakaua's Mission

NEW YORK, July 28.—The Times has a communication from Elisha Allen, Hawaiian minister at Washington. He says that the statement that King Kalakaua wants to sell his kingdom is entirely without foundation. His tour is from liberal curiosity, and for the enlightened purpose of making himself conversant with the governmental institutions and people of other countries. He is accompanied by a commissioner of emigration who had hopes that he could induce emigration from India or some other country in the east which would strengthen and increase the Hawaiian race. His travels are for patriotic purposes and will undoubtedly be of great value to his own people. The idea of sale of the kingdom is as abhorrent to the king as the same act would be to any sovereign in Europe.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The trustees of the postal telegraph company met to-day at James R. Keene's office. Mr. Keene was elected president and [illegible] Haskins, the well known telegraph man, vice president. The organization is now completed. The programme and full list of trustees will be made known to the public in a few days. Haskins has been prominent in telegraph business in Milwaukee and was one of the American commissioners of telegraph to the Paris exhibition.

English and French Correspondence on African Affairs

[illegible] French [illegible] Tripoli [illegible] foreign minister was assured by Count [illegible] that Turkey regarded Tripoli as an indisputable part of the Ottoman empire and he had no intention whatever either of invading or of attempting to establish any exclusive [illegible] influence in that country. He constrained [illegible] had been addressed to the porte had been mild, and [illegible] and had not been made until France had very good reason to believe that the Turkish [illegible] in Tripoli had been stirring up disaffection in Tunis. The porte had been warned of the danger which must ensue if fire was lighted in Tripoli, which should spread to Tunis, and it had been assured that if contrary to her hopes and wishes France was driven to military measures she would take defensive measures only, and French troops would not cross the country of Tripoli. The French [illegible] declared that it would be a real and great [illegible] if anything should occur to weaken the close and cordial understanding between France and England in regard to Egypt. The correspondence closes with a dispatch from Earl Granville to Lord Dufferin, ambassador at Constantinople, instructing him to advise the porte to refrain from giving cause of jealousy or complaint to France.

It is announced that Arabs attacked Hammam Lif [illegible] a place barely [illegible] miles from Tunis. General [illegible] has taken measures to protect the capital in the event of insurgents venturing so far.

The French Elections.

LONDON, July 28.—A Paris correspondent of the Times gives the reason for hastening the date of general elections. It is that General Saussier, French commander of Algeria, sent a confidential report to Paris that a serious insurrection might be expected to break out in September. Great effort would then have to be made and a formidable army sent to Africa. Perhaps mobilization of the army would even be necessary. In short it would be needful to take rapid and decisive steps, which might cause uneasiness among electors. This made the government's alternative of [illegible] election as if in September the country is confronted with a serious African campaign, election might be seriously complicated and formidable argument afforded to the opposition.

THE GREAT NORTHERN LINE.

ROUTE OF THE NORTHERN PACIFIC FROM THE MISSOURI TO THE PACIFIC OCEAN

A Country Capable of Large Development [illegible] on the Union Central Pacific [illegible] Line [illegible] and [illegible] Miles of Branches

[illegible]

[illegible] Prof. Hayden in his survey [illegible] the United States. Prof. Hayden [illegible] said that

[illegible]

[illegible] this region is certain to become one of the world's [illegible] and through Montana has not till recently been exactly determined. Information about it with its interesting [illegible] the [illegible] fairly on its way up the valley. [illegible] the line [illegible] With the [illegible] Montana [illegible] last year the [illegible] the Northern Pacific [illegible] Nebraska [illegible] transportation [illegible]

At just the point where the Northern Pacific will [illegible] the National Park [illegible] distance. This will [illegible] to the park each year as [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

Those who know most of the country through which the Northern Pacific travels are not all enthusiasts. These enthusiasts are not railroad men or land agents, but scientific men like Prof. Hayden and Prof. Stevenson, whose remarks have already been quoted, and army men like General Merrill and Gen. Brisbin. Gen. Merrill asserts that there is

[illegible]

That of Montana, like Gen. Anderson and Gen. Brisbin, has his pet place. Gen. Merrill has placed it as the finest part of Montana the almost equal sided triangle between Fort Buford and the mouth of the Mussel Shell river up the Big Dry creek across east to Glendive and thence down to the mouth of the Yellowstone. Here there are 4000 square miles of the best kind of agricultural country so well watered that it does not need to be irrigated. It will in time give good support to a branch of the Northern Pacific from Glendive to the mouth of the Musselshell river and beyond up the Milk river. Montana is full of rich valleys, all of which will before many years have a branch of its own running to the Northern Pacific. In going up the Yellowstone valley the Northern Pacific passes the half [illegible] of these the valleys of the Powder, [illegible] Tongue, the Big Horn, Clarks Fork, Stillwater, Canyon Creek, Sweetgrass and Shields river. In Montana, as in Dakota, Minnesota and Oregon, the construction of these branches will be the work of the Oregon Transcontinental and the property when built will belong to that company. When we add the controlling interests in the Northern Pacific and Oregon Railway & Navigation company a [illegible] total of assets is obtained which will in time exceed the value of all the railway property in the country. These branches will be built only where fertile valleys or heavy timber or good mines invite them and they will have little or no competition.

It is in its course beyond the Yellowstone that the Northern Pacific develops one of its greatest advantages over the other transcontinental routes. This is found in its passage over the mountain ranges. The Union Central Pacific system has to cross five mountain systems at great heights. At Sherman the pass on the Union Pacific is 8000 feet above the sea. The Northern Pacific crosses the Rocky mountains at an altitude of [illegible] the highest point. The Central Pacific crosses the Sierra Nevadas at a height of 7,000 feet; the Northern Pacific crosses the corresponding range at an altitude of less than 100 feet. The Union Central Pacific roads cross five ranges—the Rocky mountains, the Green River mountains or Black hills, the Wahsatch, Humboldt and Sierra Nevada at

HEIGHTS RANGING FROM 7000 TO 8000 FEET

The Northern Pacific, including the Oregon Railway and Navigation line, has but two ranges to cross, and the passes are 5800 and [illegible] 300 feet high. As already stated, the Sierra Nevada is whittled down where the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co. cross to less than 100 feet.

FROM PORTLAND TO SAN FRANCISCO

The Northern Pacific will get its connection by completing the Oregon and California road. The money is on hand for this work. The unbuilt gap in the Northern Pacific between Glendive on the Yellowstone and Spokan in Washington territory is now 800 miles. This will be lessened to 600 miles this year.

A construction programme is being laid out on the largest scale. Men and materials will be lavishly supplied and as rapidly as the engineers can furnish the lines and levels the track will be laid. The [illegible] fixed is fixed as the time within which the whole work will be done. When completed the Northern Pacific proper will be 2000 miles in length from Lake Superior to Wallula, where it meets the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company.

Simultaneously with the completion of the main line a vast system of branches, feeders and extensions will be built at once in Oregon and Washington territory as well as in Dakota and Minnesota.

A PERILOUS VOYAGE.

Prof. King and a Lady Reporter Ascend from Philadelphia in a Balloon and Experience some Exciting Adventures

[illegible] Prof. Samuel [illegible] at 4:30 [illegible] afternoon [illegible] [illegible] The balloon went up [illegible] the lower [illegible] in the [illegible] was nothing but that. A reporter [illegible] from the [illegible]

[illegible] at a [illegible] King, who [illegible] entertainment [illegible] Mr. Wanamaker [illegible] balloon [illegible] a new aerial visitor, the Comet. The occupants of the basket were the professor who [illegible] a lady friend of Mr. King's family and a representative of the Times. The balloon which was inflated with 12,000 feet of gas left the earth behind it amidst the applause of the thousands of spectators and the music of Carl Sentz' orchestra. The wind which had been blowing strongly throughout the afternoon seemed to die away as the word of command was given, and at first the great air bag hung listlessly above the heads of the multitude. At 2000 feet above the earth the view was a perfect one. All the people of the city seemed to be gathered near Memorial hall. Their figures faded away gradually then blended into one solid mass and finally disappeared over the city. The balloon took a southeasterly course and followed down over Ridge avenue. Far beneath lay the great city. It was a city composed of red brick. Prominent buildings could be easily distinguished. The penitentiary looked like the spokes of a great cartwheel, the public buildings like a massive fortress. At 4 [illegible] the balloon was over the Delaware. The vessels were in their holiday attire and the snapping of crackers and the explosion of guns from the Camden side bore evidence that the day was being spent by the Jersey small boy in a much different way than his brother on the other side of the river. It was a beautiful country that the balloon passed over after crossing Camden. At a height of 3000 feet the truck gardens looked like the squares of a checker board.

Now the wind died away and the sun shot its rays down spitefully upon the occupants of the balloon. It was warm, very warm, away up there in the clouds and the rarified air acted upon the gas in a rather disagreeable way, but nobody minded that. Far below a puffing engine drew a train of passenger cars toward Atlantic City. Although they looked like toy cars at a distance, the rails were perfectly distinguishable. The intricacies of the average Jersey road [illegible] could be appreciated at this height. [illegible] something awful to contemplate.

[illegible]

[illegible] the [illegible] flat lands of Jersey. At [illegible] the balloon was 300 feet high. Then it took a sudden fall as the [illegible] went behind a cloud and popped up [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the center of the storm

[illegible]

[illegible] in making ready for the drag rope whipping along through the tops of the trees [illegible] below. To the left a clearing was discovered with a farm house upon it. Strong and loud calls for aid brought ready responses. "Head us off! catch the drag rope!" shouted the captain of the air ship, but the drag rope whipped merrily along over the trees skirting the clearing and defied capture. Matters were coming to a crisis. The shadow of the coming storm upon the trees in the distance was black as night. The professor sat with the neck of a bag of ballast in his hands as the balloon sailed over a swamp covered with tall cedars. It would be impossible to land here. The water was neck deep. The balloon would have thrashed itself to pieces in short order. Down went the air vessel as if to reconnoiter. A cold current struck her. It was the advance guard of the storm. With the swiftness of an express train the great gas bag flew along. "Look out! Brace yourself well!" sang out the professor as it became evident that the balloon would strike. The shock came and the basket rushed through the tree tops and bounded up again. Down she came and dashed in among the cedars as if trying to level them. A little more sand was thrown out and the basket cleared the trees and in a moment more the dangerous swamp had been cleared. It was high time. The storm was almost upon the balloon. "Now look out for yourselves!" and the Professor threw over the anchor as the gas bag floated over a dry spot covered with bushes and small trees. "We must come down here and I'll explode the balloon if necessary." The anchor caught and held and the balloon careened over and went up above the trees. The valve was open and the gas rushed out. But not half fast enough. The wind increased and the balloon tugged to get free. The professor seized the collapsing cord. In an instant the balloon was rent from top to bottom. Out went the gas with a rush and down came the balloon. It fell over some high bushes in the form of a tent. Then the rain descended in torrents, and there in the midst of a Jersey forest and in the midst of a little tornado the voyage of the Comet was ended. She had been in the air an hour and a half.

The rain stopped and the mosquitoes came. A tramp of an hour through swamps and wet bushes and help was found. A wagon took the air voyagers three or four miles to Ato[illegible] and the city was reached at 1 o'clock this morning.

FRIDAY MORNING JULY 29 1881

TO CRUSH THE SPOILS SYSTEM.

Under General Jackson the democratic party invented and put into operation the doctrine that "to the victors belong the spoils." This phrase was formulated by William L. Marcy, a democratic senator from New York, who had learned the doctrine as a disciple of the notorious and ever infamous Aaron Burr. Down to the time of General Jackson it had never been put in practice in the national government. The early presidents made no removals from office except for actual cause. Partisanship was not considered in making appointments. No official's tenure depended on his party affiliations, and still less on his adherence to the personal and political fortunes of a "boss." Bossism is only a feature of the comparatively modern disease of office-grabbing, plunder and spoliation. Such a system never entered the imagination of the founders of the government. It was their idea that officials should hold during good behavior. There is nothing whatever in the constitution about limiting the terms of any office holder except the president, vice president and members of congress. All the rest were to be appointed by the president with the advice and consent of the senate, and no limitation as to time was named. The constitution knows and suggests no reason why the civil appointments of the government should be limited to short terms any more than the military or naval ones. We have never yet seen any one who could explain why, if it is a good thing to have army and navy officers hold places during good behavior, it wouldn't be a good thing also for postmasters, collectors, and especially for the hardworking clerks of the departments of public business. Into discharge of the duties of these positions partisanship has no right to enter more than into the military or naval service. By making the presidential and congressional positions elective, and the routine positions appointive, the framers of the constitution clearly indicated how far they thought political change ought to go in the conduct of the government. That it is perfectly possible as well as beneficial to change frequently the elective heads of government and those high officials who shape and direct its political policy, while giving permanent tenure below them, the example of our own army and navy, with changeable presidents and cabinet officials fully proves; while the example of England and France, where Gladstone and Disraeli, Gambetta and Grevy may change places once a year, or as often as majorities change in the commons or chamber of deputies, but where the mere routine officials never change, proves that the same system is feasible in the civil service as well. Indeed we need not go to foreign countries for this illustration or example. Our own experience down to the time when Jackson introduced the robber system under the doctrine that the "spoils" belonged to those who can take them, is warrant enough for the assertion that what is now proposed under the name of civil service reform is entirely practicable and wise. The country is now awakened to this subject as it never was before. Unless the signs are at fault congress will respond to the public demand by taking hold of it at the very next session. Though the democratic party introduced the spoils system and practiced it during its whole term of power, that party is now in a position where, as it is not expecting office for its adherents, it may do a real service in behalf of this reform, if it will. Senator Pendleton already has in hand a series of measures relating to the subject, which he and others have perfected with great care. These were carefully revised and finally approved during the last congress by the wisest friends of civil service reform in both parties; but as there was not sufficient time to press them upon the attention of the houses, they were laid over till next winter." It is said of them that they cover the whole ground so far as it has been explored. They deal with appointments, removals, party services and enforced payments of money. They are meant to strengthen and aid the president in executing the constitution. They throw examinations and appointments open to everybody. Their tendency is to break down that party monopoly which is far worse and more dangerous than any corporate monopoly can be. They protect the president by declaring that no man shall be eligible for certain prescribed places until he has undergone a competitive examination. This is precisely the point at which the president needs protection, inasmuch as efficient clerks will not be likely to be removed if the "workers," "strikers" and "bummers" are forced really to compete with well-equipped candidates for vacant places. The system is to be at first applied only in the Washington departments and in the larger cities. The manner in which and the grounds on which removals are to be made is carefully specified in the new bills. Every constitutional objection has been guarded against. The debate will be in able hands, and it will demonstrate that civil service reform is no vague or visionary idea. This subject is likely to be the great feature of policy discussed during the next session of congress. Encouragement, too, is afforded by the fact that men like Blaine and Windom, hitherto indifferent to the subject, have now been taught by experience the necessity of pushing the reform.

FACTS ABOUT IRELAND.

The decrease of the population of Ireland during the last forty years is without a parallel in the history of any country within modern times; and the decrease still goes on. In the year 1841 the population numbered 8,175,124. It is now only 5,159,849. The decrease is 3,015,275, or nearly 40 per cent. The rate is now less rapid than formerly, yet the loss during the last ten years has been 252,538, a number greater than the combined population of Oregon and Washington territory in 1880. Though many have died of actual starvation since the maximum of population was reached in 1841, the principal depletion has been by emigration. For example, during ten years ending with 1861, 1,147,118 persons emigrated from Ireland, and 768,859 during the next ten years thereafter. On this the New York Evening Post remarks: "The emigration from Ireland since 1846 is probably, all things considered, the greatest exodus which has taken place in the world since the great movements of population which overthrew the Roman empire. Of the gain to those who have emigrated there is no question. But of the gain to the remaining population of the island there is much reason for doubt. The emigrants have been for the most part hardy, energetic, enterprising and thrifty, and generally in the prime of life, and their steady outflow during the last forty years cannot but have lowered the average power, both mental and physical, of those who have staid at home." No doubt this is a correct judgment. But the emigration was a necessity, since America presented an invitation and afforded a timely opportunity, and England kept up her old policy of pressure on the inhabitants of the island, from which all who could were glad to escape. This policy is still followed. Therefore the journal above quoted is historically right when it observes that "from the time of Elizabeth down, the idea that the greatest obstacle to the peace and prosperity of Ireland was the presence on her soil of the native Irish population, has had a firm hold on the English mind. It was the animating idea of King James' plantations, and of the Cromwellian settlement, and has more or less influenced nearly all recent English opinion about Irish troubles."

The census of Ireland, just completed, discloses many other very interesting facts. No less than 45,619 dwelling houses have disappeared during the last ten years, a fact eloquent beyond any statement in words against evil laws and their unmerciful execution. The people are rapidly crowding into the towns and cities or leaving the country for America—facts that look badly for the future. The richest tracts of soil are those which suffer most from depopulation—another fact that bears its own comment. A consequence to be expected from so vast an emigration is an increasing disproportion of sexes among those who remain; and hence the female population of the island is much larger than the male. It is a common thing to hear persons speak of "Catholic Ireland," as if the entire population were of the Catholic faith. This was once so. But the recent census shows that of the whole population, 5,159,849, the Catholics number 3,051,888. The remainder, 2,107,961, may, with sufficient accuracy, be termed Protestants. In former times the Catholic population overshadowed all other religious connections. But the oppression of bitter law under the "church and state" regime gradually did its work and thinned out that portion of the population which was too poor to pay tithes to an alien church and at the same time support its own. Even after the removal of this obnoxious system its evil effects remained. Most of the persons leaving Ireland every year are of the Catholic confession. It may surprise many to learn that the population of Ireland now stands at the ratio of two Protestants to three Catholics; yet this is the census return. The oppression is not now of a religious character. It has assumed a purely political and governmental aspect, and falls equally upon people of whatever religious belief. It seems certain that the population of the country will be reduced still further, and very probably Ireland within three generations from the beginning of the exodus and depletion will have no more than half the population shown by the census of 1841.

Guiteau, assassin, will be tried under the laws of the District of Columbia. In case the president recovers Guiteau can be sentenced only for assault with intent to kill—the extreme penalty for which, by the code of the District, is eight years' imprisonment. Following is section 1150 of the district code:

> Every person convicted of manslaughter or of any assault with intent to kill shall be sentenced to suffer imprisonment and labor, for the first offense for a period of not less than two nor more than eight years, and for the second offense for a period of not less than six nor more than fifteen years.

The extreme penalty that could be inflicted under this law would be absurdly inadequate. It would be light where a private citizen was all but fatally shot without provocation, but in the present circumstances it would be a mere mockery of justice. A blow aimed at the president is an attack on the nation; and it is no approach to a recognition of the divine right of rulers to hold that in an official and and representative sense the chief magistrate of a nation is a different person from the rank and file of the people. It would be well to amend the law so as to make any attempt upon the life of the president or vice-president a capital crime.

Returns from nineteen of the principal post-offices of the United States for the quarter ending the 30th of June show an increase in the amount of business done of 10.7 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year. These nineteen offices pay one-third of the postal revenue, and the increase noted almost warrants the belief that the post-office department will be self-sustaining this year. This result will also be greatly furthered by the resolute action taken by the postmaster-general in cutting down the swindling star service.

Pennsylvania now holds the third rank among the tobacco growing states. Large quantities of Pennsylvania tobacco are shipped to Key West, made into cigars there, reshipped north, and sold as the product of imported tobacco. Thousands smoke these cigars and pronounce them first-rate, who could hardly be prevailed on to touch others made from the same stock in Philadelphia.

Bob Toombs said in a recent interview that he had great difficulty in getting Lee into the confederate service. Davis wanted to make a man named Cooper the ranking general, while Virginia wanted Lee to have that position. Lee was finally given the place to keep Virginia true to the confederacy. But all this may be Toombs' twaddle rather than actual history.

The Ohio democratic platform in favor of civil service reform would amount to more if the Democratic record in the state was not all the other way. When the democrats had control of the governor and the legislature in 1878-9, they made a clean sweep of all the offices worth having, and the democratic record in Cincinnati in regard to municipal offices has been disgraceful.

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1881.

OREGONIAN AT THE RESORTS.—Parties can have THE DAILY OREGONIAN sent to them at any of the seaside resorts, at $1 per month, on leaving their address at the business office of this paper.

OREGONIAN AT ASTORIA.—Extra copies of the DAILY at E. C. Holden's, for the accommodation of visitors.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, July 29.—For Pacific coast regions partly cloudy weather, with local rains; for California, fair weather.

CITY.

STATEMENT CONCERNING THE TEMPERANCE MEETINGS.—There seems to be a misunderstanding or misapprehension concerning the temperance meetings held by the ladies of this city, and also concerning the Young People's meeting. With reference to the former, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is a purely undenominational organization, and as such is auxiliary to the National Christian Temperance Union. Although the meetings may be held in places of public worship, the organization being religious, is purposely unsectarian. Its officers and delegates are representatives of various churches. As a part of the business of the meeting held last Saturday in the Y. M. C. A. hall of this city, which was called for the purpose of organizing the Juvenile Christian Temperance Union, a list of names was read of persons to be elected to fill offices of the Young People's Christian Temperance Union whenever it shall be organized. Announcement also was made last Saturday afternoon that a meeting would be called in due time to perfect its organization. It is to be a society distinct from the Juvenile Christian Temperance Union. Keeping this in mind will prevent confusion.

WORK ON SEWERS.—Work on a number of the terra cotta sewers of the city is going forward lively at present. The Jefferson street sewer is laid as far as Third street, and is to be carried to Fifth street. The Salmon street sewer is finished as far as Sixth street and is to go to Eleventh street. The Washington street sewer is almost completed to its full extent—that is, to Eleventh street. Work has just been begun on the Ash street sewer, which is to be extended to Fourth street. The D street sewer is completed from Seventh to Tenth, and will be extended to the river as soon as the water falls sufficiently; and work has been begun at Fourth street on the H street sewer, which will extend from Eleventh street to the river.

RAG PICKING.—Those who have had occasion to cross Washington street bridge certainly have noticed the Chinese camp in the gulch and the quantities of rags strewn over the ground adjacent thereto. It would surprise our readers to learn that tons of rags are picked up by that industrious class, the Chinese, every month, carried out to the gulch, cleaned and dried and finally baled and sent to the paper mills on the Clackamas. There is an equal chance for white people to make a clean up in the same direction.

DELEGATES ELECTED.—The following persons were elected at the teachers' meeting of the First Methodist Sunday school as delegates to attend the State Sunday School Convention at Seattle, August 4th: Dr. S. Nelson, E. F. Heroy, Mrs. E. Y. Moore, Mrs. E. Sutherland, Mrs. E. J. Northrup, Miss K. Robinson, Miss G. Caples, Miss N. Mecham, Dr. H. Chance. The following delegates were chosen from Hall street M. E. Sunday school: Mrs. H. K. Hines, Mrs. Mendenhall and Mrs. Phillips.

SPECIAL BOAT TO THE RACES.—To accommodate business men who can not spare an entire afternoon, the Willamette Chief will leave the foot of Washington street at 2:30 this afternoon, sharp, for the race track. Visitors will thus be enabled to see the two running races—decidedly the most interesting and exciting features, and to return by 5:30 P. M. The boat will also leave at 11:30 A. M. and 1 P. M., as usual.

POSTAL INSPECTOR.—Mr. S. A. Wilson, general inspector of the postal carrier system in the United States, arrived here on the last steamer. He is on an official visit to the Pacific coast. He has already made a personal inspection of the carrier system in San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento, and his visit to Portland is for the same purpose. Mr. Wilson's headquarters are at Baltimore, Md.

SHOULD BE REMOVED.—A correspondent wishes to have the attention of the superintendent of streets called to several boxes of garbage collected at the corner of Fourth and Yamhill streets. He says the collection is offensive both to the eye and olfactories, and it should be regarded as a public nuisance and treated accordingly.

BIRDS DOING WELL.—The Astorian of Wednesday says: "Mr. A. H. Morgan called yesterday to inquire about the birds let loose on Clatsop a year ago from China, through kindness of himself and Consul General Denny. The birds let loose twelve miles below Portland are breeding this year and doing first-rate."

APPOINTED AGENTS.—Messrs. Jos. Bachman & Bro. have received the appointment of agents for Oregon and Washington Territory for the Scottish Union, National and Lion, of London, insurance companies. Mr. Ad. Bachman has just returned from San Francisco where he closed arrangements.

UNDER BONDS.—A. B. Fournier, who was arrested Wednesday charged with larceny from a barber shop, on First street, has been held to answer the charge before the grand jury in the sum of $150. Fournier now languishes in the county jail in default of bonds.

LECTURE.—Dr. Truesdell delivered his fourth lecture last evening at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. to a good audience. His subject was "Magnetism and Spiritual Phenomena." This evening he will deliver his fifth lecture on the same subject, at the same place.

JUVENILE TEMPERANCE UNION.—The Juvenile Temperance Union connected with the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will meet at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Saturday, July 30, at 2 P. M. All are invited.

M. E. CONFERENCES.—The Columbia River M. E. Conference will convene at Colfax, W. T., on the 4th of August. The Oregon Conference will convene at East Portland Wednesday, August 17th.

POSTAL CONTRACT AWARDED.—Edward McGilviary has been awarded the contract for carrying the U. S. mail between the post office in Vancouver and the O. R. & N. Co.'s landing.

HANDEL & HAYDN SOCIETY.—Full rehearsal at 8 P. M. to-night. As this will be the last rehearsal but one, it is imperative that every member should be present.

PICNIC.—Weather permitting, the first annual picnic of the Workmen will be given at Gambrinus Gardens on Sunday, July 31.

TWENTY-TWO RIDES FOR $1 50.

When the Willamette Chief was ready to pull out from the race track landing yesterday afternoon, there were twenty-two boys, ranging from six to fourteen years old, on the bank gazing at the boat, and each one of them, no doubt, wishing that he were a man, and had two bits to pay his fare and save a tiresome walk. Old man Abrahams, the tailor, was on the deck, and shouted to the purser at the end of the gang-plank, "I'll give you four bits to take all those boys to town."

"Won't do it," answered the ticket taker. "Let 'em walk back, same way they come out."

"Then what will you take?" asked the charitable Hebrew.

"I'll take $1 50," said the young man.

By this time two hundred or more passengers became interested in the conversation and looked up at the gray-bearded philanthropist.

"Well, will you let six come on for a half?" he asked.

"No, I won't," came a gruff answer.

Two gentlemen standing near, each handed the purser a half, Abrahams threw down his four bits, and in less than four seconds those gamins, with a whoop and a yell, and hop-skip-and-jump, boarded the steamer amid much laughter from the passengers.

BRIEF NOTES.

Last day of the races.

Very cool at the seaside.

Girofle-Girofla this evening.

Dust is out of fashion just at present.

Persons seeking cool weather need not go to the seaside.

Matinee to-morrow afternoon by the Lester opera company.

E street is almost open from Front to the city boundary line.

Two neat cottages are being erected on the southeast corner of Washington and Eleventh.

A few timbers have been laid on the Washington street bridge, making the roadway somewhat better.

R. E. Cross, of Oregon City, and Thornton Williams, of Portland, have been appointed notaries public.

PERSONAL.

H. B. Mann, of Hutchinson & Mann, San Francisco, is in the city. During his stay he will visit the principal points in the state. Mr. Mann is largely interested in the insurance business and represents a combination of companies.

SEASIDERS FROM EAST PORTLAND.

Some of the principal citizens of East Portland have arranged for a special trip of the steamer Lurline to Ilwaco, on Wednesday, August 3d. She will leave Portland, foot of Alder street, at 6:30 A. M., and leave Cond & Striker's dock, East Portland, at 7 A. M. Any information will be given at Dr. Rafferty's drug store, East Portland, or at the Lurline, Central wharf.

DUFFY AND DEXTER

CARRY OFF THE FIRST HONORS YESTERDAY.

Dexter wins the Trot in three straight heats, and the Bunchgrass Boy Defeats Caddie R. and Merritt.

The attendance at the races yesterday was large and fashionable. Pleasanter weather and a finer condition of track could not have been wished for. Messrs. C. P. Bacon, Thos. H. Tongue and William Frazer were selected as judges, and performed their duties acceptably.

The 2:38 Trot.

Positions were chosen as follows: Dexter 1, Goldfell 2, Startle 3, Inauguration 4, Fannie Kellogg 5. Dexter was driven by Smiley (the younger), Goldfell by Lindsay, Startle by Lothy, Inauguration by Misner, and Kellogg by Hogaboom. In the pools Dexter was the favorite, bringing $45 to Inauguration's $20, and $10 on the field. In the 2:36 trot Tuesday Misner drove Dexter in the last three heats, and the fact that he would drive Inauguration gave much confidence to the latter's backers. After eleven attempts, in which all the horses except Dexter acted like 2-year-olds and refused to keep their feet, the five trotters got away, Kellogg having the advantage of a length and Goldfell a like disadvantage. Dexter took a commanding lead at the turn and held it to the finish, winning without exertion in 2:34½. Kellogg 2d, Inauguration 3d, Startle 4th, Goldfell 5th. The last named was clearly distanced but the distance judge did not hear the tap, hence the flag was not dropped.

SECOND HEAT.

Pools sold: Dexter $25, Inauguration $5, the field $12. It took eleven trials to get a start, which was about even between all except Startle, who was two lengths behind. Dexter again took a commanding lead, and with the exception of one slip by which he gained rather than lost, trotted the course without a break. At the quarter he was a length ahead of Kellogg, who was closely followed by Inauguration. The latter by very pretty work overtook the former at the half, and from there to the three quarters they kept together. In the stretch Kellogg left her feet and allowed Inauguration second place. Dexter won in a slow jog in 2:35; Startle a bad fourth and Goldfell distanced.

THIRD HEAT.

Pools sold: Dexter $20, Inauguration $3, field $4. After eight false starts the horses were sent off, Startle three lengths behind the other three. The starter, Mr. Bacon, called them back, but Lothy shouted, "Let them go," and the bell was tapped. Dexter took the lead and race in 2:33½, Inauguration a good second, Kellogg at his sulky and Startle distanced.

It is worthy of record, that in the six heats won by Dexter during this meeting, he was never pushed, and that he passed under the wire every time at a jog.

SUMMARY.

Dexter	1	1	1
Kellogg	2	3	3
Inauguration	3	2	2
Startle	4	4	Distanced.

Time—2:33½, 2:35, 2:33½.

The one and a half Mile Dash.

It is plainly evident that lovers of horse racing in this portion of the Pacific Coast, in a proportion of five to one, if indeed not ten to one, including ladies, prefer running to trotting. The mile and a half dash was looked forward to with intense interest, especially by Englishmen, who were largely represented. The prevailing opinion was that Caddie R. would win easily. This judgment was based on her fine breeding, and more particularly on her splendid performance at the Salem fair grounds July 4th, where she ran a dead heat of one and three-quarter miles with Trade Dollar, who was regarded as the best racer in eastern Washington. Patsy Duffy was well known to his backers, but comparatively a stranger to a majority of those who invested their money on the favorite. Pools were in such demand for this race that Kilbourn refused to entertain advances of less than $5 on bids for first choice. They sold: Caddie R. $65, Duffy $35, Merritt $7 to $9. It is estimated that between $1500 and $2000 went into the pool box on this race within twenty minutes. Duffy was ridden by Patsy Duffy, Caddie R. by Arthur Hook and Merritt by Wm. Appleby. Duffy won the pole, Merritt 2d and Caddie outside. For the first hundred yards Duffy's jacket and cap of gold showed in front of Hook's cinnamon and black, Merritt a few lengths behind, reserving himself. Before the first quarter was reached Caddie lapped the bunchgrass boy, and both came down the stretch at utmost speed, the brown mare leading by half a length, and passing the wire in :53. Skillful jockeying was shown by Duffy to get a lead at the turn, but Caddie's rider was equal to the occasion, and held his own. Pace was slightly slackened at the third quarter, but on the back stretch both were sent as fast as possible without whipping, Caddie still in the lead. At the mile Duffy was at the mare's neck. There was tremendous excitement all round. Everyone was on his feet, with bated breath, eagerly watching the magnificent thoroughbreds. Towards the fifth quarter Duffy's head came to view, then his shoulders, and in less time than it takes to write it, opened a gap which was increased to a length, then two. It was now evident that the coast mare was gone, and a shout went up from the throats of the hitherto quiet eastern Oregonians. Hook could not urge Caddie over the hill at the last turn, and she was hopeless. Just then Merritt, who was lost sight of in the race between the other two, let himself out and entered the stretch at tremendous pace, but was too far in the rear to touch Duffy, who passed the judges' stand in 2:45 amid vociferous cheering, leading Merritt two, and Caddie six lengths.

THE WINNERS.

Patsy Duffy (the horse, not the rider) is a bright bay stallion, 15 hands and 2½ inches high, and weighs 925 lbs. He is well formed, fine, clean limbed and very gentle except when being rubbed out on the track. He has splendid staying qualities and is said to be quite as good in a four mile race as in one for half that distance. He is by Leinster out of Addie A., and was foaled four years ago on the farm of L. G. Pritchard, near Sacramento, and raised by him. When two years old he ran second to Contra, and was beaten only a lap in the best time for two year olds ever made on this coast, 1:43. A year after he was brought to Butte City, Montana Territory, to beat Joe Howell (by Bonnie Scotland), who had defeated every horse in that country, and had a record of 1:42½. Duffy accomplished the object for which he was purchased, by beating Howell in a two in three mile heat race, the best mile in 1:47, and afterwards in a two mile race in 3:41. He was bought by N. G. Callahan, of Baker City, last November from Cy Mulkey, of Butte City, the price being $2000. Until yesterday he had run only one race in Oregon—with Red Boy, a five year old, by War Dance, 1½ miles, in which he was beaten by half a lap in 2:38¾. He was named for the jockey who rode him yesterday.

Dexter, who now steps to the front as one of the fastest, if not the fastest, trotters north of San Francisco, is owned by Robert Kennedy of Walla Walla. Hitherto, his performances at the Salem fair grounds have not been remarkable, although he was generally regarded as a superior animal. He is by Old Bellfounder; dam of good stock but pedigree unknown. Dexter is nine years old, a dark bay, 16 hands high and weighs 1250 lbs. His points of excellence are great length of body, and round, smooth barrel, long, handsome neck and fine carriage. He has a number of very promising colts of which much is expected.

Patsy Duffy

(the jockey, not the horse) has achieved no little celebrity here this week and he merits the praise generally bestowed on his ability to develop all the speed a horse has, his coolness, and particularly his acuteness in taking advantage at critical junctures. He was brought to Baker City from California by Mr. Callahan last November. Duffy is 23 years old, does not look a day over 16, and he weighs 109 lbs. He rode one race at Baker City this summer, and rode Trade Dollar at Salem in the great Fourth of July race.

AMUSEMENTS.

GIROFLE-GIROFLA.—Lecocq's sparkling comic opera, "Girofle-Girofla," was produced last evening at New Market theater. Dress circle and parquette were comfortably filled with an audience, fashionable and intelligent. Although defects were manifest throughout during the performance, yet the public verdict was that the opera, as a whole, was rendered satisfactorily. The dual role of Girofle-Girofla was sustained by Miss Lester. Without invidious comparison, it can be said that Miss Lester, as a vocalist, is in every respect the peer of Miss Emily Melville, whose performance last year so charmed lovers of opera bouffe in this city. Miss Lester rendered the sparkling score with spirit and dash, and acted as piquantly and vivacious as the composer could have desired. Her vocalization of the famous "Drinking Song" was perfectly delicious and charming. In closing, the little lady took the house by storm when, sending her voice clear from the chest like a skyrocket, she struck high E, sustaining the note some seconds as clear as a bell. The effort won a rousing encore. The remainder of the cast was reasonably well sustained—negatively good without special brilliancy. Mr. Knight as Don Bolero, did some rather clever acting, and, by his comicalities added to the general enjoyment of the rendition. The Marasquin of Mr. Rorabeck, was by no means a faultless performance. Justice to that gentleman requires the statement that he has been quite ill since leaving San Francisco and is indisposed at present. His singing and acting last night showed decided improvement over the two preceding performances. Physically, and in point of make-up, Mr. Nathal's Mozzouk could not have been improved. The acting was excellent, but the score might have been sung with a little more power and spirit. Miss Emma Schultz, during the evening, gave several songs neatly, and was a valuable auxiliary to the chorus. A careful and thorough rehearsal of orchestra and chorus would greatly augment the effectiveness of the opera.

This evening Girofle-Girofla will be repeated and there is every reason to predict even more enjoyable performance than last night, as each one will be better acquainted with the parts allotted. To-morrow afternoon a grand matinee will be given.

THE LEASE OF THE NARROW GAUGE LINES.

Conditions of the Lease and Various Particulars. The Rent to be Paid about $140,000 Per Annum.

The Dundee Advertiser of July 7 contains interesting particulars concerning the lease of the Oregonian Railway company's line narrow gauge to the Oregon Railway and Navigation company. The report says: "When the Oregonian narrow gauge lines were projected in the early part of 1880 it was simply with the view of meeting the requirements of a large fertile and well-settled district of country. Lord Airlie, during his visit last autumn, and Mr. Cochrane, after his recent inspection, were satisfied with the position and prospects of the undertaking, and they had received further confirmation of the representations made to them in offers to lease the lines before they were fully completed. One of those offers was from the Oregon Railway and Navigation company. The directors were not anxious to part with their property, but in view of all possible contingencies they thought it would be wiser to consider the proposals which emanated from this powerful combination rather than run the risk of a competitive warfare. After giving an outline of the negotiations he was glad to state that Mr. Bretherton, the agent for the Oregon company, had met them in a satisfactory, candid and reasonable manner. Considering the confidence placed in the directors by the debenture holders, their first and chief anxiety had been to make them secure, and this, so far as carefully drawn provisions could accomplish, had been accomplished. Then they had looked to the interests of the shareholders to secure them a fair and legitimate return on their investments. The proposed lease had been framed in the most cautious manner, and considered by the directors clause by clause, and it came before the shareholders with the unanimous recommendation of the board that it should be adopted. He would now call on Mr. Lowson, the managing director, to explain the working out of the lease so far as the shareholders were concerned."

Mr. Lowson, in further allusion to the position of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company, remarked that the ordinary share capital was $22,000,000, and the price of its shares in the New York stock exchange was $160 for every $100 of stock. The proposed lease is for 96 years. The rent for 163 miles of railroad made and to be made by the Oregonian Railway Company, would be £28,000 per annum, payable half yearly in advance, and the rent will begin on August 1, the date of entry for the finished mileage, say 133 miles. The remaining 30 miles will, it is expected, be completed in the beginning of November, when the full rental will come into play. Mr. Lowson explained how the rent would be apportioned, the payment of interest on the debentures and the probable dividend to the shareholders. As the Oregon company already had access to Portland, they wished this company's branch to be abandoned, but half the outlay incurred would be paid, and afterwards the balance if the lessees saw it for their interest to construct the Portland branch within the next ten years. Mr. Lowson then explained a sinking fund arrangement for extinguishing £10,000 of the debentures annually. The lessees practically undertake all liabilities in the way of assessments and taxes; will uphold and replace plant and rolling stock; give access to books, and acquire various properties and furnishings belonging to the lessors. They will also pay a moderate allowance for keeping up the corporate organization of the Oregonian railway on this side. In conclusion, Mr. Lowson said the whole negotiations had been conducted by Mr. Bretherton on the part of the lessees in a most fair and straightforward manner. There were many details to adjust which required care and consideration, and sometimes even a reference to New York. These were all dealt with in a candid and liberal spirit by the lessees, and, having taken a prominent part from the first in the negotiations, he had pleasure in expressing his appreciation of the agreeable manner in which the whole arrangements had been carried to a successful conclusion.

A PLEASANT INCIDENT.

Two Letters of Thanks Penned by Indian Pupils at Forest Grove—Encouraging degree of proficiency shown.

A few days since Capt. Fernald of the ship Golconda, with his family visited the Indian school at Forest Grove. The captain and his people were so pleased with the school that before leaving port he sent the scholars a fine present, as coming from his son. The letters of thanks from the scholars will show how the presents were received, as well as an indication that gratitude is being developed in the character building of the Indian girls and boys at Forest Grove. These letters are just as they were written by the children:

FOREST GROVE, July 25, 1881.

Master E. Fernald—Dear Little Friend—Last night at supper Captain Wilkinson asked us some question, first he asked us "What was the name of the captain that was here last?" and we did not give him an answer because we had forgotten your father's name. But one of the boys said, "He is Captain somebody." He asked us another question, what was the name of the ship that he is captain of? We answered the question, Golconda, and he asked us again, when was the birthday of the captain's little boy? We gave answer, last 13th of July, his eighth birthday. And he told us that he received a package for us from the captain's little boy. Capt. Wilkinson asked us, who will write to the little boy? So the boys appointed me to write to you and thank you for the things you sent to us. I can not express myself how thankful we are. This letter is from all the boys. When the boys got through eating we all looked at your picture and the things. We thank you very much for the neckties.

I am sorry I was not in the school room when your father spoke to the boys. I was out of school because my eye was sore. But I saw you when you passed the boys that were working on the stumps. I was there. We shall remember you all the time. Please remember me too. I send my best wishes to you all. Your friend, DAVID BREWER.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR INDIAN YOUTH,
Forest Grove, July 24, 1881.

My Dear Friend—I was appointed by the girls to write for them to you. We are all well pleased with your beautiful presents that you sent to us. Nothing could please us more than those beautiful things. The ribbons are beautiful. We shall be very proud of our dresses that will be made out of that calico. It will make us think of you very often, for your kindness in sending those beautiful presents. We are very thankful. We will always remember you and the loving kindness of your hearts. We remember your visit here to this Indian school. We are all trying to do what God wants us to do. Will you all pray for us please, that we may learn about God and Jesus, and lead our people to the right way. We shall think of you whenever we'll look on the globe in the school house, and wonder where you are on the world. With thanks and best wishes from your friends, the girls at the Indian training school.

INCORPORATED.

Yesterday articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the county clerk by Mary E. Cline, Lulie A. Mallory, Jennie O. Reed, Lewis Johnson, John S. Hawkins and G. W. Lawson. The name by which the incorporation shall be known is the "Northwestern Book Store Company of Transcendental, Scientific and General Literature." The objects of this incorporation are to purchase and own or lease and hold suitable real estate in Portland, and to occupy the same in business, to carry on and transact as wholesale and retail dealers the business of buying, selling and loaning books and stationery; to carry on the business of a well-assorted book concern, containing all the current literature of the day, and all liberal, spiritual and scientific literature.

Principal office will be located at Portland. Capital stock is fixed at $10,000; amount of each share, $10. Duration of incorporation, unlimited.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A. P. Hotaling & Co., general agents for Oregon and Washington territory of the Fire Insurance Association of London, are prepared to accept risks and write policies on equitable terms.

THE POT IS BOILING!—Never before in the history of Portland has there been such an excitement created in business circles as is at the present time by the announcement made by Messrs. H. Ackerman & Co., of the original dollar store, who have devised a new scheme whereby articles valued at from $10 to $150 are now being offered for one dollar. In order to facilitate their scheme the store will be closed to-day and opened to the public on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, and all should avail themselves of this extraordinary opportunity.

AND STILL THE RUSH CONTINUES.

The people are convinced that we are doing what we say, and that is, we are selling our immense and fine stock of MEN'S and BOYS' CLOTHING, FURNISHING GOODS, HATS, SATCHELS, TRUNKS, etc., at prices 25 per cent. below regular rates. On account of our early departure for the East for fall stock, now is the time for you to secure FIRST-CLASS BARGAINS. Prices of all our goods marked down to the lowest notch. STRAW HATS at less than cost. SUMMER SUITS at your own price. Don't fail to call. We mean business, and for the next TWENTY DAYS everything will be SLAUGHTERED at J. KOHN'S CLOTHING PALACE, corner First and Morrison streets.

LAST DAY'S RACES.

Purses of $1850 to be competed for—Two Running Races.

The last meeting of the Northwestern District Agricultural Association will close to-day by races for purses sufficiently large to insure the finest day's race in Oregon. The facilities for witnessing trials of speed including transportation for $1, or with seat in the grand stand for $1 50 have heretofore not been known in Portland. The successful efforts of the new association to afford this pleasure, no less than the superior turf performances, merit substantial recognition and the grounds ought to be crowded to-day. The steamer will leave the foot of Washington street at 2:30 P. M., just in time to catch the first running race. The boat will return not later than five.

Following is the programme for this afternoon:

1:30 P. M.—Trotting race, free for all horses on the Pacific coast: 1st horse $450, 2d horse $225, 3d horse, $75—$750.

Following are the entries: Milton, Mustang, Bose and Kelly.

3 P. M.—Running race for all ages, [illegible] miles. First horse $450; 2d horse $225; 3d horse $75—$750.

Trade Dollar, Ordinance and Jack Douglas are named. Pools in last night: Trade Dollar $40, Ordinance $12, Jack Douglas $9.

3:45 P. M.—Consolation purse for all horses that have not won first or second money during the week, seven-eighths of a mile. First horse $150, 2d horse $20, 3d horse $30—$350.

Just what horses will enter cannot be determined [illegible] as the races [illegible] won first or second money are [illegible] Winters, Jack Douglas, Clark, Misner [illegible] May flower.

RELIGIOUS ITEMS.

The M. E. Sunday school at Lafayette is to have a new organ.

Bishop Kavanagh, of the M. E. Church, South, was a passenger by the Interior City.

Three persons were baptized by immersion in the Baptist church last Sunday evening.

Rev. G. W. Woodruff, who has been secretary of several of our general conferences, is traveling in California and may visit Oregon. He is a brother-in-law of Bishop Haven.

A son of Bishop Haven has received the appointment of surgeon on the China line of steamships, belonging to the P. M. S. S. Co., and sailing out of San Francisco.

A letter from Mr. Theodore S. Haven, son of the Bishop, who is now with him at Salem, to the editor says the bishop is slowly but surely convalescing. He has been obliged to abandon all hope of being at the Columbia River conference. While this will be a great deprivation to the conference, the church will feel greatly blessed if the bishop recovers from this very serious illness.

Last Monday, July 25, was the 36th anniversary of the Episcopal consecration of the Most Rev. F. N. Blanchet, archbishop of Amida, i. p. i. His grace was consecrated in 1845 as bishop of Philadelphia, i. p. i., and vicar apostolic of Oregon, in the cathedral of Montreal, by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Bourget, who is still among the living, assisted by Bishops Gaulin and Phelan. The venerable prelate received many congratulations, among which is also a letter from his worthy successor, Most Rev. Archbishop Seghers.

FACTS.

The "ATKINS" Champion pattern cross-cut saw is the best that that is retailed for 50c per foot in Portland or on the Pacific coast. "OUR THIN BACK" ATKINS, at 60c per foot, is warranted to beat any other CHAMPION pattern. The ATKINS "Electric" pattern, at 60c, of same quality as first named, suits sawyers demanding a very deeply gummed saw. The ATKINS genuine "Diamond," everybody knows, or ought to, is worth $1 25 per foot. "Imitation Diamond," called Diamond Tooth, sells for 75c per foot. ATKINS, of last named, is the best in market. The Silver Steel DIAMOND CHAMPION, made to my order and cut to ends, at 80c per foot, is the very best saw that is now manufactured for general use. This blade is same shape and quality as the genuine DIAMOND with the Champion tooth.

NEXT. The UNION CHAMPION, made by ATKINS & CO. to my special order, is for very large timber only. Is of No. 11 gauge, and of SILVER STEEL Champion pattern. A 7½ foot saw weighs 16 pounds.

I believe that I now have in stock the LARGEST and BEST stock of cross-cut saws, from four to 8 feet lengths, that ever arrived in Oregon or on this coast, that are particularly made to order for our FIR and SPRUCE timber. Will be pleased to fill an order for one saw or six hundred as desired.

ATKINS saws are now the popular saws for our Fir Timber, and the makers guarantee me that their standard of quality shall surely be maintained.

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH IS OVER.

Business is quiet all over the city; but ISAAC BARMAN don't feel the effect of it.

THE REASONS ARE:

That he still continues to sell the immense stock of Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods, which he bought of Mr. A. MEYER at such very low figures, at prices that will astonish the closest buyer.

That his entire stock must be sold on or before the 1st day of September, in order to make room for his immense fall stock.

That he is offering Great Bargains, having reduced—

Suits from $15 00 to $10 00

Suits from $17 50 to $12 50

Suits from $20 00 to $15 00

Suits from $22 50 to $17 50

Suits from $25 00 to $20 00

That he is offering his entire stock of Furnishing Goods at 75 cents on the dollar.

That he has marked down his entire stock of Scarfs and Ties at 50 cents on the dollar.

That he is compelled to raise money, and he will not let up until he has it.

Make use of the opportunity before it is too late.

MRS. LINCOLN'S HALLUCINATION.

The True Condition of the Wife of the Martyred President—Her Illness has been Magnified

A Springfield dispatch to the Chicago News says: Of late the newspapers of the country have contained an almost countless number of paragraphs relative to the serious illness of Mrs Lincoln, the widow of the martyred president. These have not originated with the newspaper correspondents of Springfield, who have been familiar with the true condition of affairs, but have originated from outside and irresponsible sources. Inasmuch, however, as they have done no harm, and have gratified no one more than Mrs Lincoln herself, they have been allowed to pass uncontradicted, and have been repeated in an endless variety of forms by all the newspapers of the country except those of Springfield.

Ever since the tragic death of the lamented president, Mrs Lincoln has been the object of an affectionate interest and concern to the entire nation. This has been abundantly attested by the eagerness with which the slightest bit of information concerning her has been received, and in many other ways unnecessary to mention. The paragraphs recently distributed so widely, representing her to be at the point of death, have greatly increased the popular anxiety for further particulars, and it is perhaps proper that the Morning News should now state her exact condition—something that has not yet been done by any newspaper.

Mrs. Lincoln came to Springfield on November 3, 1880, and has since made her home at the residence of the Hon. Ninian Edwards, whose wife is her sister, where she has been tenderly cared for. The most noticeable feature connected with her arrival was the extraordinary amount of baggage which she brought with her. This consisted of over sixty trunks, which, according to the railway officials, weighed about 8000 pounds. In these trunks is contained a remarkable collection of ordinary possessions of the most miscellaneous character, comprising almost everything in the shape of clothing, trinkets, etc., that she has accumulated since childhood, all of which she treasures with zealous care. Mrs. Lincoln has caused by the assassination. It has been well known to the public that Mrs. Lincoln has never fully recovered from the terrible shock shared with her by the country, occasioned by the fatal bullet of Wilkes Booth. Under such trying circumstances as those she then encountered, it would not have been surprising if her mind had been shattered and reason had lost its sway. Fortunately, however, this result was avoided, but the effects of that terrible ordeal have since been manifested in the development of certain peculiarities and eccentricities, which, while they have been mainly of a perfectly harmless character, have been the source of great anxiety and constant trouble to her immediate friends. Since coming to Springfield it has been Mrs. Lincoln's pleasure to consider herself hopelessly ill—a confirmed invalid without the slightest chance of recovery. About a month after her arrival she shut herself up in her room, professing to be unable to [illegible] down stairs, and there she remained persistently from last Christmas until Wednesday of this week. The burden of her conversation was about her sufferings. No one could live a week and suffer the pains which she described as afflicting her. She constantly complained of severe pains in her back and limbs. Her most frequent expressions were that she was on fire, and that she felt as though she was being cut to pieces by knives. Many times a day would she reiterate the statement that she did not expect to live another day. Her greatest satisfaction was to read the newspaper statements that she was lying at the point of death. These were carefully clipped for her edification, and she seemed to desire that the news should be circulated as widely as possible. This desire has certainly been gratified to the fullest extent by the press of the country, and it was on Mrs. Lincoln [illegible] that the statements were not sooner corrected.

AN IMMENSE AMOUNT OF BAGGAGE

While undergoing the self imposed punishment already described, Mrs. Lincoln often spent the morning looking through her immense collection of trunks, occasionally fishing out some dilapidated garment and mending it carefully. She received but few visitors and seemed to care but little for reading anything except the newspaper paragraphs already mentioned. She is constantly in receipt of a large correspondence, largely from autograph hunters, though a number of friends write to her regularly. These letters she seldom answers, as she does not like to write, but occasionally she requests some of the family to answer them for her. All her business affairs are transacted by Mr. Jacob Bunn. In the afternoon it has been Mrs. Lincoln's habit to darken her room as much as possible. She has declined to use gas, except when visitors called, and she has preferred to obtain what light she needed from ordinary candles or from tapers floating in water. During the winter, at her desire, sisters from the hospital remained with her through the night. During all these imaginary troubles Mrs. Lincoln's appetite has been good, but she has insisted that she has always been a good eater, that her condition cannot be judged by her appetite, and that her disease is of a nature that requires her to consume a great deal of food.

EATS AND SLEEPS WELL

Through all these months she had always slept well and a great deal, though she has strenuously insisted that she has not. Recently she sent for her physician and said that she wanted to sleep, that she had hardly slept all winter. She wanted something to make her sleep, but did not want anything that had an opiate in it. The doctor complied with her request, and she slept nearly all the time for three days, being very drowsy during the short intervals when she was awake. Since then she has complained of feeling better. For some time the doctor has advised her to take a drive as soon as she was able to get out. After setting several days for making the attempt she felt enough better after her long sleep to go, and not only took a drive on Wednesday of this week but wants to soon take another. Mrs. Lincoln is not really sick. She does suffer from a slight trouble, causing this hysterical condition, and of course her general health has not been improved by her six months confinement to her room and her general mode of life. But her sufferings are almost wholly imaginary, and she may at any time conclude that she has recovered. All her fancies and whims are indulged to the fullest extent by her friends, and this may be said to comprise the whole course of treatment adopted. It will be seen from the facts herewith given that there is nothing in the condition of this lady who occupies such a peculiarly prominent place in the interest and affections of the people of the United States to give ground for especial anxiety as to her health and well being. While it is not reasonable to expect that she will live a great many years longer, being now about sixty, there is at present no reason why she should not live out the full measure of the years allotted to woman, and that her remaining days may be days of peace, contentment and freedom from suffering will certainly be the earnest desire of the nation.

THE ASSASSIN'S ORIGIN.

Some Account of his Family—The Assassin a Degenerate Reprobate

FREEPORT, Ill., July 5.—Guiteau is the son of the late Luther W. Guiteau, who was cashier of the Second National Bank for years, and a gentleman who stood well in this community. It is said that had it not been for the recklessness of his son he would have lived many years longer. The father of the criminal was a native of New York state, and was born in Utica, Oneida county, March 3, 1810. He came West as far as Michigan, and engaged in mercantile business at Ann Arbor. In 1832 he came to Illinois and settled in Freeport in the month of October of that year. He engaged in mercantile business and for many years filled many offices of honor.

He was married in 1833 to Miss Jane Howe, daughter of Maj. John Howe, of Antwerp, Jefferson county, N. Y. She died in 1848. In 1854 he was married to Miss Maria Blood, of Cazenovia, N. Y. He had three children by the first wife, and two by the [illegible] surviving; one, Charles J. Guiteau, has a brother named J. Wilson Guiteau, with the New York Life Insurance Company, with headquarters at Boston, who is considered a very fine gentleman; also a sister who resides at Chicago, the wife of Mr. George Scoville.

Hon. John H. Addams, the president of the Second National Bank, in which institution Mr. L. W. Guiteau, the father of the criminal, [illegible], was called upon. Mr. [illegible] of the crime which Guiteau had just committed [illegible] which fell upon [illegible] man from his youth [illegible]. His [illegible] was diversified with [illegible]. He was also a [illegible] of the famous Oneida community in central New York. His full name is Charles Julius Guiteau. The last time he was in Freeport was about [illegible].

Another gentleman [illegible] criminal was intimately [illegible] surprise when informed [illegible] He was twenty [illegible] deal of [illegible].

Mr. Luther W. Guiteau, [illegible] half brother of Chas. J. Guiteau, was called upon at the Second National Bank. He stated that the criminal had been away from home for many years and was not considered a member of the family. He had a [illegible] disposition, and his father, who had some insight into his character, expressed the opinion several times that his son would some time commit some crime [illegible] that would bring disgrace upon the family. It was [illegible] matter of surprise [illegible] to learn of the news of the crime committed [illegible] of the man. Mr. Guiteau further stated that Charles gave his father considerable trouble. Everything possible was done to restore him to his right mind, but all efforts proved futile. He was stubborn, mean and ugly, and would not listen to correction. He was a full fledged communist in every sense of the word.

CHURCHES AND RELIGION

The capacity of the largest church buildings in the world is as follows: St. Peter's, Rome, 54,000 persons; Milan cathedral, [illegible]; St. Paul's, London, [illegible]; St. Sophia's, Constantinople, [illegible]; Notre Dame, Paris, [illegible]; Pisa cathedral, 13,000; St. Mark's, Venice, 7000; Spurgeon's tabernacle, 7000; Talmage's tabernacle, Brooklyn, 4500.

A sharp controversy on the doctrine of predestination is going on in the Lutheran synodical conference, the largest general Lutheran body in this country. One party holds that election is not on account of a foresight of obedience and faith, but of grace. This is considered Calvinistic and therefore un-Lutheran by the other party, and a division in the conference is thought to be inevitable.

In the past nine years there has been an increase in India of [illegible] missionaries, 164 native preachers, [illegible] native Christians and [illegible] communicants. The totals now are 655 missionaries, 359 native preachers, [illegible] native Christians and 102,444 communicants. The Church Missionary Society (Anglican) stands at the head of the societies in every particular. The American Baptist Mission stands second as to native Christians and communicants.

Fifty years ago, said Dr. Starks of the Methodist church in his semi-centennial discourse, I never saw a written sermon in our church. Now, our preachers generally go into the pulpit with sermons written or with full notes. It was not [illegible] that the Moderators of the northern [illegible] delivered their sermons without a note, and at a public gathering held lately in one of our cities, at which a number of ministers and others spoke, the only persons who read their speeches were a lawyer and a Methodist preacher.

Among the many desirable results of [illegible] are an elastic step, buoyant spirits and clear complexions. The possessor of healthy blood has his faculties at command and enjoys a clear mind [illegible] which is impossible when the blood is heavy and sluggish with impurities. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier and vitalizer known.

Wheat

Some thirty [illegible] has been an improved feeling in England [illegible] week, but latest dispatches not [illegible] the demand, the market will [illegible] weather and the harvest [illegible] the volume of the [illegible] crop [illegible] hence, during which time the [illegible] will have due opportunity [illegible] country in their respective qualities [illegible] depressers of the market. We think it will be well to steer clear of the ultra views of both sides and expect a steady healthy market [illegible] for the ensuing season without [illegible] up or down.

Freights.

We are sorry to note that rates for freight are stiffening both here and in San Francisco. Recent charters made there on the basis of [illegible] to Liverpool for wooden ships and 82s 6d for iron U. K. noted in our columns [illegible] firm market and one that must react unfavorably on our own. We hear of 60s 6d having been paid for September canceling, and it is stated that vessels have been diverted from destination here to the west coast of South America for nitrate at 70 shillings freight, which is relatively higher than so far has been paid here for U. K. Freights. It seems to be absolutely certain that the ships will have the advantage of the farmers as they did last year.

Bags.

The market for sacks has ruled pretty steadily during the week at from 10¼c to [illegible] for Calcuttas and is a little weak owing to the position of the ring in San Francisco, who have not been enabled up to this time of getting control of the whole holding. They cannot go higher unless the ring get a better grip on the stock than they now seem to have.

A Word to Farmers.

We can not too strongly impress upon the farmers of the Willamette valley the duty of stacking their grain as it is reaped, and so avoid the possibility of loss by any long-continued storm while it remains in the bundle or shock. One particular harvest year we remember was rendered disastrous by over one half the crop bleaching and [illegible] in the field and a large proportion lost entirely. A prudent policy would be to avoid a repetition of this danger by making the cut grain secure as harvesting progresses. Standing wheat can weather a prolonged storm without damage, but bound wheat in the field can not. If properly harvested the quality of wheat in the Willamette valley will elevate its standard abroad, which will greatly redound to the benefit of farmers in after years. It is well to lock the door before the steed is stolen, and we throw out the hint, hopeful that a word to the wise is sufficient.

Pacific Coast Hops.

Phil Neis, hop merchant at San Francisco, has issued his customary hop circular as follows: Our market is bare of choice hops, and not one bale is left in growers' hands. Stock in warehouses, 40 bales, all of which are of inferior quality. Fluctuations of prices during the season insignificant. With the exception of the Willow Grove, values since September ruled from 15 to 20 cents. Last year's crop reached in round numbers 15,000 bales, of which 3540 bales were grown in California, 4990 in Washington territory and [illegible] in Oregon. Overland export to date 10,310 bales; by sea to Australia, New Zealand and other countries, [illegible] bales, making 10,863 bales.

Quality of California hops was mixed. Washington territory not up to previous years—partly frosted. Oregon better than usual.

Prospects of the growing crops: California crop will be shorter than last season. From present appearances the yield will be all the way from 10 to 20 per cent less than last year's. Yards in Sacramento, Lake and Napa counties will produce only half a crop. Washington territory vines look better than for the last two seasons, and if nothing interferes 1,000,000 lbs will be produced. Oregon—the crop will exceed last year's; increase of acreage 10 per cent. The best care has been given to the yards and most of them promise a heavy yield.

The Salem Mills.

Some days ago we informed our readers of the sale of the Salem flouring mills to an organization of well known capitalists and business men. Since then some changes have occurred in the personnel of the ownership of the company, occasioned by Mr. Wm. Reid selling his interest to Messrs. Ladd & Bush, Ladd & Tilton and Wm. Scott. The [illegible] a reorganization necessary, and Mr. A. Bush has been made president vice Wm. Reid resigned.

The directory of the company now stands as follows:

Directors—Wm. S. Ladd, A. Bush, Robert Bell, Wm. S. Sibson and Geo. Beattie.

Secretary—Robert Bell.

Agent in Liverpool, Wm. Scott.

Agent in Portland, Wm. S. Sibson.

Superintendent of mills, Geo. Beattie.

Mr. James Young remains as manager of the mills at Salem.

The Produce Market.

Quotations in flour are unchanged. Stocks continue large, and demand light except for best brands. Sales drag along slowly. Oats are weaker owing to large receipts. Nearness of the new crop also operates to weaken the market. Hay is dull; sale

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS

[illegible] July 8.—The freight market is more than usually quiet even at this dull period of the year. There is very little doing at the wharves of California vessels. The ship [illegible] probably get away by the 20th, but it is doubtful. Rates remain very steady at last quotations [illegible] voyages, but both lines have sufficient [illegible] over until September, when there probably will be an influx of vessels suitable for this trade. Isthmus freights are very light and nothing is doing outside [illegible]. The Oregon Improvement Co.'s steamer [illegible] all consists of railway supplies.

Markets, although generally quiet, are firmer in most instances.

Wheat—Higher cable [illegible] demand [illegible]

Pork—Firm, lower.

Lard—Lower, quiet.

Rio Coffee—Better demand, firmer.

Refined Sugar—Fair demand at irregular rates.

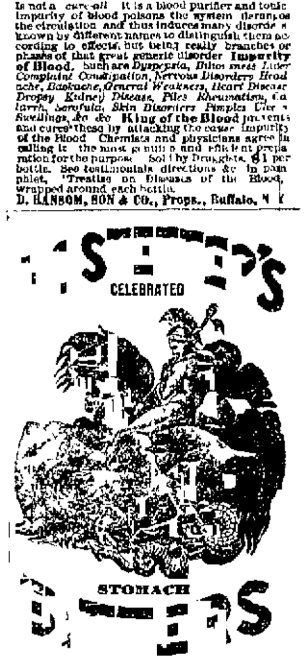
King of the Blood

Is not a cure-all. It is a blood purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c. &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, Impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose. Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle. D. RANSOM, SON & CO., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.



FEEBLE AND SICKLY PERSONS

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred when few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the liver to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, in cases of Ague and Fever, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a fair trial.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression Dr. McLane's Liver Pills.

The genuine McLane's Liver Pills bear the signatures of C. McLane and Fleming Bros. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
